

Hutchison's Bargain Store.

Is the place for special bargains this week. New goods in all departments. The rough weather, the impassable roads and highways, of travel almost closed, cut business down to the minimum point. Our expenses are the same. A thrifty, an economical, a wise buyer, a bargain hunter and the people who have leisure or cannot work at this season of year, all can find money saving prices in all our 26 departments. A little effort on their part will save time later in the season and get goods at prices that will be good wages to the person out of work and to those who have time and money. It is a large profit on their money. See some of the bargains we are offering. Note we state the regular prices and our bargain prices.

We are making some changes in our dress goods stock and find remnants and small pieces of 4, 6 and 8 yards length. These are cut down in prices.

5 pieces golf plaids at $1.00 per yd. were $1.50 and $1.75. Other nice plaids at 25c, 50c, 75c and 85c; worth 75c and $1.00 a yard.

Plain dress goods at reduced prices.

Plaid skirts at $3.68, were $5.00, $6.00 and $7.50. Medium weight jackets and capes at cut prices.

Full 10 yard spool silks, best quality at 7c a spool.

Bargain sale of muslin underwear, this week, displayed at center counters in the Dry Goods section. Children's drawers 10c, waists 15c, dresses at 25c and 35c, skirts 18c. Ladies' wear chemises at 19c, 25c, 35c and 50c. Night gowns at 50c, 69c, 79c and 85c. Skirts 39c, 50c and 89c. All at great reductions from regular prices.

A present of a nice trimming for dresses sold in dress goods department in jet, silver or gilt.

We have some great values in Torches and Val laces and embroideries.

An extra good bargain in all our lined undershirts. They are in Sateen, Wool, Mottel, Ami Silk and Mercerized silk, at 48c, 75c, 85c to $1.95. Away under regular prices.

Our wall paper stock has been overhauled and renewed by large quantities of new papers. Some small lots of fine papers to close at a bargain. Now is the time. New stock at the lowest prices.

Mattings and Window Shades, this week. We can save you money on these goods this week.

New arrivals of clothing, hats and shoes. Here is where we can show you great savings. It will not cost you anything to examine our offerings. Try us. A dollar in your pocket is better for you than some one else to have it when you can save it. We have the goods and prices to show you.

New goods in China ware and Glassware Department. We have unusual good facilities to get these goods at bottom prices. Our customers get the benefit of them. Come and see what you need.

Did it ever occur to you that we sell Art Embroideries, Stamped Goods, Cushions and Sofa Fringes and many nice and pretty things that go to make up this department at away below regular prices. Please investigate and see if we do not.

Yes, our Grocery Department is the center of the grocery buying of this city. Prices, quality and service are the factors that make it. Are you one of our patrons, if not try us this week and you will be surprised and pleased at our savings.

PURPOSE IN A FAST.

New Yorker Stops Eating to Prove a Pet Theory.

Holds That Fat People Can Transmute Daily Affairs Without Inconvenience During Protracted Periods of Fasting.

Hilton Rathbun, a resident of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has not yet broken the fast of 40 days which he began recently. He wants to demonstrate that a person can do without food without giving up his daily routine of business, or suffering any great inconvenience, providing he has a well-nourished physique to start with. Last spring Mr. Rathbun attracted attention by fasting 28 days. In that time he reduced his weight 42 pounds.

The present fast began January 22, and Mr. Rathbun is keeping it for the joint purpose of decreasing his own weight, and for the benefit of other people who are inconvenienced by a superabundant amount of flesh. His daily routine, as outlined by him to a reporter, is as follows: At 6:30 o'clock a. m., arises and takes a sponge bath; seven o'clock, one glass spring water; 7:45, walks to railroad station and takes commuters' train to New York; 8:30, writes my business letters; 9:30, body; 10 o'clock, takes short walk and drinks another glass of water; six o'clock, returns to Mount Vernon; seven o'clock, another glass of water; eight o'clock, drinks more water; 8:30, retires. His daily consumption of water averages two quarts, and he is getting rid of about two pounds of flesh a day.

"When I began fasting," Mr. Rathbun said, "I weighed 307 pounds. On Saturday I weighed 192 pounds. By March 1 I expect to have reduced my weight to 160 pounds, when I shall end my fast. I have no craving for food, yet I enjoy seeing other people eat heartily. I am never hungry, and seldom thirsty; but sometimes I get a little feverish. This is caused by the tissues being absorbed. My greatest desire is to get asleep as soon as possible at night, and give my brain a rest. In my opinion, abstinence from food for certain lengths of time will cure nervousness and headaches, and prevent apoplexy."

A NEW FAD.

Peddling of Soaps and Perfumes by Society Women the Rule at New Brunswick, N. J.

A new fad has sprung up in the best society circles of New Brunswick, N. J. The women have gone into the business of selling soap and perfumes, and they all move about armed with samples. At afternoon teas, balls and receptions the blue-blooded drummers talk of very little but soap and scent trade.

"Do you know," said the hostess of a pink luncheon the other day, "that 14 of my 16 guests tried to sell perfumes to me? Of course I had to buy them. One must be polite to one's friends."

The game began when merchants offered extraordinary premiums to the woman who could sell most scent and soap in the town. One firm "hung up" a gold set, another a horse and wagon, and a third a Paris dress, chairs and piano lamps are given out by the dozen, and prizes are offered to the women who deal in laundry soaps.

LOVING CUP READY.

The magnificent gift that is to be presented to Sir Thomas Lipton by Americans Adoring.

The magnificent gold loving cup which is to be presented to Sir Thomas Lipton is now ready for presentation. It will be placed on exhibition at the Merchants' club. The date of presentation has not been fixed. The cup, which is of 18-karat gold, is 14 inches high and rests upon a green marble base. Three graceful mermaids form the handles, from which run sprays of shamrock, rose and golden-rod, emblems respectively of Ireland, England and the United States, in green, red and yellow gold. There are three panels on the body of the cup. The subject of the first is an allegorical figure of "Welcome." The second panel bears the figure of Columbia and Britannia clasping hands, and the third the inscription, which reads: "To Sir Thomas Lipton from his American friends, 1899."

GETS HIS MEDALS.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Surgeon of the Belgian Antarctic Expedition, Signally Honored.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the surgeon of the Belgian antarctic expedition of 1897-99, has received the diplomas and medals conferred upon him by the Royal Belgian Geographical society and the city of Brussels. The medal of the Geographical society is of silver, two and five-eighths inches in diameter. On the obverse is shown the steamship Belgica in an ice field with all flags set. Above the main and mizen masts is engraved: "Hiveren 1897-99," showing the latitude of the expedition's winter quarters. On the reverse is the seal of the Royal society.

French Savings Banks.

The latest available statistics of the operation of the postal savings system in France was 1895, when 2,500,000 accounts were handled, and three per cent. was paid on $143,000,000, besides leaving a profit of $170,000. The management cost .45 per cent. of the mean amount of deposit.

Canadian Prosperity.

Last year's prosperity in Canada was due largely to the opening up of western mining territory and to good crops in Manitoba, the northwest and in Ontario.

An Apostle of Laughter.

The news that "Dan" Rice is dead will awake many memories in the minds of the old and middle aged in all parts of the country. Before such will rise up a mental vision of days long past when youth and strength were theirs and the pathway of life appeared all roses before them. To many long resident amid the din and bustle and crowds of the cities will loom up the spectacle of a country village with its usually lonely streets crowded with folks from the adjoining country side all agog with excitement over the coming of the old time circus whose chief attraction was the man whose life has just ended. The joys of such a day for many have never been repeated and after the lapse of half a century the memory of them will once more crowd the minds of men and women now gray and tottering when they hear the news that "Dan" Rice has passed into the great beyond. To a large number of the survivors of those who owe many happy moments to the genial wit of the great clown the news of his death will come with surprise because of the fact that they had deemed him to have passed away years ago. It is 58 years since he first became a showman and 56 since he first assumed the role of clown in which he won such fame. It is 35 years since he gave up that role to assume the management of the Forepaugh & O'Brien show at $1,000 a week, and 25 years since he retired to his home at Girard in this State, where he remained until nine years ago when he again for a brief season embarked as a showman, since which period he has lived quietly in New York. It is not strange therefore that many of his old time admirers should have thought him deceased long before the notice of his death on Tuesday last was received.

Old Pittsburghers will feel a particular interest in the news, because it was in this city that "Dan" Rice embarked upon the career in which he made such a success. He was born in New York City in 1823, his family name having been McLaren, which he changed to Rice when he moved to Pittsburgh in 1841. Here he became a part proprietor of a livery stable and developed his ability as an acrobat. A year later he began his career as a showman by exhibiting a trained pig in small towns of western and southern Pennsylvania. About this time he appeared as an athlete in P. T. Barnum's American museum in New York, and subsequently traveled through the southwest and west performing feats of strength, singing songs and dancing. In 1844 he appeared for the first time as a clown in Spaulding's circus, in which capacity he proved both witty and original. He traveled with different circuses for several seasons, and in 1848 became the proprietor of what was then the largest show open to the public. Finally he overtook him in 1850, but he soon recovered, and made a good income from the circus until 1865, when, as stated above, he became manager for Forepaugh & O'Brien. From 1871 he exhibited the Paris pavilion in New York and elsewhere. He made magnificent gifts to charitable purposes and for public monuments. During the Civil War he promoted recruiting by delivering patriotic addresses in connection with his performances. Himself for a period a victim of intemperance, he later became a temperance lecturer. For awhile he resided in Cincinnati and he was also a large land owner and resident of Texas for a period.

"Dan" Rice ascribed his success to the fact that he early learned that the people liked to laugh and he bent all his endeavors to giving them an opportunity to do so. That his endeavors were appreciated thousands still living are willing to testify. Wherever "Dan" Rice traveled, and there were few neighborhoods of the older states where he did not show his pleasant face, laughter and light accompanied him. His jokes and quips were not of the most polished order nor his antics those of the greatest actors, but there was no harm in either his saying or doing and no bad taste was left in the mental mouths of those who participated in the feast he provided. There was no talk of arresting him for attempting to teach morals by giving immoral performances and any attempt to have molested the genial apostle of laughter would have been resented to a man by the thousands who derived enjoyment from his performances. Many whose early life was enlivened and cheered by "Dan" Rice's jokes and antics have long ago grown beyond witnessing a circus or taking any interest in a clown's performance. Their taste has changed and they now prefer to behold alleged high class performances in which the performers portray either their own or other's past immoralities upon the plea of teaching the young men and women of the day the advantage of being moral. "Dan" Rice had no such object in view and resorted to no such "high art" methods, but he gave innocent and keen enjoyment to many and he will be cherished in kindly memory in the hearts of many long after many more ambitions and less innocent would-be entertainers of the people have been deservedly forgotten. —Pittsburgh Times.

Crushing Out Ambition.

"You told me you had sent an article to the magazine. Was it published?"

"No."

"Did the publisher return it?"

"They did not."

"Then you didn't send stamps for return postage?"

"Yes, I did. They returned the stamps. They said the manuscript was not worth returning."

"Why don't you see them for it?"

"That's what they want me to do. They say they would like to have it read in court." —Chicago Tribune.

ONE OF THE OTHER SORT.

"So your son has not gone to fight the Boers, Mrs. Todd?"

"No, sir; it's a name I've heard your reverence called by, and my Joe hasn't come down to fighting parsons yet." —Aly Sloper.

Groceries.

"They wanted me with hobgoblins. When I was a little lad. They were me and my microbes. And they're pretty near as bad." —Washington Star.

Ship of the Tongue.

"What do you sell that ribbon for?" asked a young lady in a high street dry goods store.

"Eight dollars a week—oh, beg pardon, 25 cents a yard, madam." —Columbus (O.) State Journal.

Nature's Efforts.

My friend's colored maid came in one day after her regular weekly outing, looking as if she had enjoyed herself.

"Well, Susan," said my friend, who is sympathetic, "I suppose you saw all the pretty things in the stores downtown?"

"No'm, not zactly. I ben lookin' at de landwork ob de Lawd."

"Indeed? So you took a little trip to the country to see the fields and flowers?"

"No'm; no, indeedly. I ben at de dime museum. They has a hairy boy and a two-headed man." —Waverly Magazine.

As It Soon Will Be.

The walking delegate of the Amalgamated Association of Poultry Raisers shook his head.

"I will have to take away your union card," he said.

"What's the matter?" asked the farmer.

"This speckled hen of yours looks up upon working overtime and lays more eggs than are allowed by the union rules." —Chicago Post.

New Phase of the Negro Question.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer publishes a letter purporting to have been written by a negro graduate of the State University, now a successful teacher in a southern normal school, in which the writer suggests a new phase of the negro question. The writer of the letter, whose name is not given, says: "While expansion is termed the opportunity America has been waiting for this long time, is it not right that the negro may expect a share of its benefits? During the Spanish war I was a subaltern in a regiment of United States volunteers. At present I occupy a clerical position, but I aspire to something more, something better, something to give me opportunity. I am not a klicker, but I am peculiar in wanting to see Ham getting his share of everything Uncle Sam is passing around. Now, why should not this be a good time for the negro of education, push and self-reliance to get a foothold in our new possessions—in the Philippines, in the Hawaiian islands, in Porto Rico? If we don't make a start ourselves, nobody will make it for us."

Here is one case of the many we have. Mr. A. L. Carter, the engineer of Zellerbach's Brick Yards says: "Army life may have had something to do with the attacks of kidney complaint I am subject to. I enlisted in the Ohio Reg. 36 Co. It is possible that the cause may be traced to the hardships endured. Whatever the cause there is one thing sure I suffered any amount of misery at times, my back aching for days at a time, and along with it there was a distressing urinary weakness. The secretions were painful and inconvenient at night. I took lots of medicine for it in my time, some may have helped me while taking them, and some may have helped me for a short time after, but I never got anything to do the work of Donan's I got a box at W.
